

This image shows a fragment of a papyrus scroll, likely from the Herculaneum papyri. The text is written in a cursive Greek script. The fragment is torn and irregular in shape, with some text visible on the left edge and the main body of the fragment containing several lines of handwriting. The ink is dark, and the papyrus material is light-colored and textured.

32

[illegible]

69:82

[illegible]

Handwritten text, likely a signature or name, appearing as "H. J. ...".