Monsieur le Consul

During the course of yesterday morning, Signor Ugoletti, a native of Modena, provided with a Passport from the British Minister in Turkey, bearing the Visas of His Britannic Majesty's Consul at Malta, dated the 6th of April 1837, presented himself in the Chancery of this Ministry and stated that he had received notice to quit Athens of his own accord before evening, or he would be sent away by force.

I was at first naturally disinclined to give the slightest credence to his statement, but when he assured me that the information came from a source which left him no ground for doubt, I requested Mr. Griffith, the Secretary of this Mission, to inquire to your office for information on the subject.

Mr. Griffith accordingly saw Mr. P. Delganno, the Consular Attaché, about midday, and requested him to state to you the circumstances under which M^r Ugoletti had presented himself to the British Chancery, and it renews to you my hopes that you would inform me of the grounds upon which the decision against M^r Ugoletti was founded.

Mr. Delganno assured Mr. Griffith he would have no time in laying the case before you and in communicating to him the result of his interview with
