

Handwritten text in Greek script, likely a manuscript or draft. The text is dense and covers most of the page. There are some corrections and insertions visible. A large, dark ink blot or smudge is present near the bottom center of the page.

Handwritten text in Greek script, likely a manuscript or draft. The text is dense and covers most of the page. There are some corrections and insertions visible. A large, dark ink blot or smudge is present near the bottom center of the page.

Handwritten text in Greek script, likely a manuscript or letter. The text is written in a cursive style and covers most of the page. It appears to be a personal or official communication, possibly related to the Academy of Athens. The handwriting is somewhat faded and the ink is dark, typical of older documents. The text is written in a cursive style, with some words being difficult to decipher due to the script. The overall appearance is that of a historical document, possibly a letter or a report.

Akadēmía Athinón / Academy of Athens
 MS. 19
 19th century
 Manuscript of a letter from the Academy of Athens to the British Museum, dated 1825. The text is in Greek and discusses the acquisition of a collection of ancient Greek coins.

Ακαδημία Αθηνών / Academy of Athens

Ακαδημία Αθηνών / Academy of Athens

Ακαδημία Αθηνών / Academy of Athens

In the first place, it is necessary to observe that the present state of the country is such, that the people are in a state of great distress and want. The government has been unable to supply them with the necessary provisions, and the result is a general famine. The people are dying of hunger, and the government is unable to do anything to relieve them. The only way to save the country is to send in a large quantity of provisions, and to distribute them to the people. The government has been unable to do this,
 and the result is a general famine. The people are dying of hunger, and the government is unable to do anything to relieve them. The only way to save
 the country is to send in a large quantity of provisions, and to distribute them to the people.