

and then, we must enter upon our duty as parents of them.
We must give them such instruction as will enable them to understand their duties as children of God, and as members of his church, and as citizens of the world. We must also teach them the principles of morality, and the duties of humanity. We must also teach them the principles of religion, and the duties of piety.
We must also teach them the principles of science, and the duties of industry. We must also teach them the principles of art, and the duties of skill. We must also teach them the principles of commerce, and the duties of honesty. We must also teach them the principles of government, and the duties of obedience. We must also teach them the principles of law, and the duties of justice. We must also teach them the principles of medicine, and the duties of health.
